UNIVERSITY OF BRIDGEPORT CAMPUS WEEKLY

Full-Time Enrollment Quota Set At 5,000

The rapid increase in the University's enrollment will soon come to an end, President Henry W. Littlefield said at the opening convocation of the 1966-67 academic year.

He said that full-time enrollment will be limited to about 5,000 students. There are 4,400 now enrolled.

"The growing number of applicants combined with the projected ceiling on full-time student enrollment means that the University must become increasingly selective in the quality of its students," President Littlefield said.

A university must be selective in order to keep the standards at a high level, the president said. To reduce selectivity would reduce standards and cause a weakening in the intellectual structure that can be presented, the 8,000 student applications, 1,550 were accepted.

"The nature of our student body has changed considerably from the time when most of the University's students came from the commuting area," he said.

President Littlefield was careful to point out, however, that all qualified students that live in the area will be admitted.

"From the beginning of the University we have been committed to admitting all qualified students from this area and there is no plan to change this policy," he said. "We are proud of our relations with the community and its to us."

He warned, however, that educators must face up to the known fact that a significant segment of our secondary school graduates have demonstrated an inability to cope with an educa-

Pres. Littlefield Warns Against 'Dilution' Of Higher Education

Dr. Henry W. Littlefield, University President, warned against the possible dilution of higher education in Connecticut by combining "post-secondary education" which stresses the "how" and higher education which champions the "why".

Dr. Littlefield voiced his opinion at the seventh statewide conference of the Connecticut Council on School and College Relations at Central Connecticut State College which met to discuss admissions procedures.

Dr. Littlefield commented that a distinction should be made between "post-secondary education" and higher education.

"Post-secondary education differs from 'higher education' in perspective. It is the difference between preparing for a college degree or for vocational training. Combining the two under one broad field would 'dilute the quality of higher education," he noted.

"I personally feel that we do a great injustice to students of low academic ability to encourage them to enter college-degree programs at either the bachelor or associate degree level, and that an open door policy to foster such an idea would be unwise," he said.

In conjunction, Dr. Littlefield warned against moving too fast in regard to junior colleges. In his opinion, such a move would result in poor facilities, inadequately trained faculties, and little library resources.

Dr. Littlefield said that private institutions themselves can broaden the educational opportunities of the student. He cited a plan involving Fairfield University, Sacred Heart University and the University of Bridgeport as an example of this. Full-time students of one university may take courses at any of the others without additional charge. In addition to this, the three universities plan to make joint faculty appointments.

Dr. Littlefield urged education commissions not to disregard the private institutions in the planning of their programs.

"I urge them to so plan that they will not drive hundreds of qualified students from the private sector into the public institutions, a result which is bound to happen if some of the current recommendations for free tuition panion program of scholarships that will tend to equalize the financial factor."

"Anything that is done in the name of public higher education which will dilute or weaken these institutions is not in the public interest," he said.

"A higher education is not for everybody," Dr. Littlefield stressed. "Those who so advocate threaten to dilute the quality of the university."

He pointed out the large number of application rejections for the fall semester to show the increased selectivity of students. Of tional situation which is basically academically oriented. Such a policy, he said, "would jeopardize all of higher education."

Even to those students qualified, said President Littlefield "too few have recognized the responsibility which is theirs to use to the ultimate the full potential (Continued on Page 6)

Halsey Symposium Nov. 16

Dr. Max Lerner, noted economist, journalist, and lecturer, has been named the main speaker at this year's Halsey Symposium, Nov. 16.

The Halsey Symposium this year will examine the "Role of Mass Media in the Achievement and Preservation of a Free Society." The title of the convocation address which will be delivered by Dr. Lerner has not yet been announced.

Other members of the symposium panel include: Louis Nizer, famed lawyer and author of the best seller "My Day In Court," Otto Fuerbringer, managing editor of Time Magazine, Clifton Daniel, managing editor of the N.Y. Times, William Corrigan and William Leob.

Jack Valenti former assistant to President Johnson and Fred Friendly, formerly of WCBS T.V. are also possibilities as panelists to supplement Dr. Lerner, Chancellor James H. Halsey said this week.

Dr. Alfred R. Wolff, dean of Student Personnel, said that the panel at this year's symposium represents "one of the most impressive groups of people assembled at the University for a convocation."

Dr. Wolff noted that it is his hope that instructors at the University will incorporate the symposium into their curriculum plans.

The tentative schedule that has been arranged by the Halsey Symposium Committee begins with an informal luncheon with panel members and committee members until 12:45 p.m.

The convocation address will follow the luncheon at 1 p.m. At the close of the address at 2 p.m. student organizations on campus will be allowed to question Dr. Lerner and the panel.

Between 3 and 4 p.m. the panel will be open to receive questions from the student body. The moderator of the panel has not yet been announced but the panel will include the individuals previously mentioned plus three to six students who will make statements and pose questions arising from the previous hour's discussion sessions.

After dinner on Wednesday from 6:30 to 8 p.m. the panelists will address themselves to the role of mass media in regard to specific issues. Such issues include, "A More Peaceful World," Poverty, Race Relations, and significant campus problems.

Following the panel session, a public press conference will take place. This will be open to the campus news media and the local publications as well.

The symposium will conclude on Thursday with discussion with Dr. Lerner and students and a luncheon.

Last year's Halsey Symposium

speaker was Dore Schary, noted Broadway playwright. Schary titled his speech, "The Stage — a Mirror or Window?"

The theme of that symposium was the "Role of the Theatre in the Achievement and Preservation of a Free Society."

The first Halsey Symposium was held in 1963 and is held yearly in November. The general theme of the yearly symposium is "Achieving and Preserving a Free Society," however, the topic is changed yearly.

The symposium was established by the Parent's Association in recognition of the 25 years of service which Dr. Halsey and his wife have given to the University.

Six Depts. Name New Chairmen

The University has six new department heads in four colleges this fall.

The College of Education has three new chairmen, with new heads also named in the Junior College's art department, the physics department of the College of Arts and Sciences and a new mechanical engineering chairman in the Engineering College.

Those named and their new departments are as follows:

College of Education—Dr. Melvin Ezer, chairman of the department of elementary education; Dr. James Hamilton, chairman of the department of secondary education; and Dr. Francis Hennessey, chairman of the newly-created department of guidance and personnel services.

College of Engineering—Dr. Earl M. Uram, chairman of the department of mechanical engineering.

Dr. Ezer, of the University of Hawaii, will hold the academic rank of professor of education. He will provide leadership to the faculty in the development of programs for the preparation of elementary teachers. Dr. Harold W. See, dean of the College of Education reported.

A native of Boston, Mass., Dr. Ezer received his A.B. degree from the University of California at Berkeley, his M. Ed. degree at Tufts College and his Ed. D. from the Harvard University Graduate School of Education.

Dr. Ezer served as Associate Professor of Education at the University of Hawaii. He has also been a member of the faculty of Hofstra University and Tufts. He has been an elementary school teacher in public schools in Boston and Needham, Mass. and has served as an instructor in the Harvard University summer school.

Dr. Ezer is a member of Phi Delta Kappa, the American Academy of Political and Social Science, The National Council for Social Studies, and the National Society for Study of Education. He is listed in Who's Who in American Education and is a member and faculty advisor to Kappa Delta Pi, an honorary fraternity in education.

His publications include the following articles, "Student Teaching in the United States," in New Era magazine, "Religion and Children's Responses Involving Physical Causality" published in the Causes of Behavior, Reading and Child Development of Educational Psychology, "Social Studies and Social Sciences," Educational Prospectives, and "East West Center and Professional Education," Educational Prospectives.

DR. JAMES HAMILTON

Dr. Hamilton, formerly of Mount Union college, will hold the academic rank of associate professor of education. He will provide leadership in the development of the teacher education programs for the junior and senior high schools.

A native of Ohio, Dr. Hamilton received his B.A. degree in social science from Miami University, Oxford, Ohio and a B.S. in English from Ohio State University. He received a M.A. degree in social science from Ohio State University and pursued post graduate studies in history at Michigan State University. He received his Ph.D. degree from Western Reserve University.

Dr. Hamilton comes to the University from the Willoughby Eastlake Schools, Eastlake, Ohio, where he served as coordinator of curriculum and research. He has also served as assistant professor of education and psychology at Mount Union College, Alliance, Ohio and prior to that time as a guidance director and teacher of social studies and English in the Brooklyn and Springfield, Ohio public schools. He has served as a visiting professor at Lake Erie College and as an instructor in the Reading Clinic at Western Reserve University. He is a veteran of the United States Army, where he served in Army Intelligence as a troop information and education officer.

Dr. Hamilton is a member of Phi Delta Kappa, Pi Gamma Mu, Pi Mu Alpha and Les Politiques, a political science honorary fraternity. His professional memberships include the American Association of University Professors, The American Educational Research Association, The Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, the National Education Association and the Ohio Association for Gifted Children. He is also a member of Rotary International.

Dr. Hamilton has recently received grants to study first grade reading programs, and the development of human potential through individualization. He is the author of "The Superior Junior High Pupil," The Clearing House, "An Analysis of the Predictive Validity of the College Entrance Examination Board Scholastic Aptitude Test for Mount Union College Freshmen," "Analysis of the Predictive Validity of the Opinion, Attitude and Interest Survey — Achiever Personality Scale Mount Union College," "The Impact of Visual Training upon Junior High Remedial Reading," 1966 Yearbook of the Associated Public School Systems, "The Teaching of Comparative Religion in Public Schools," Education.

Dr. Hennessey will be responsible for administering and developing programs for the education and training of pupil personnel specialists for elementary and secondary schools and higher education.

A native of Springfield, Mass., Dr. Hennessey received his B.S. degree in Education from Bridgewater State College and his M.S. Boston college and his Ed.D. degree in guidance from Michigan State University.

Dr. Hennessey has served as an elementary and secondary school teacher, guidance counselor and director of pupil personnel services in the public schools in Massachusetts and Michigan.

Prior to his appointment as associate professor in education at the University in 1965, Dr. Hennessey served as associate professor at the Ohio State University; coordinator of guidance and counselor education at the State University College in Plattsburgh, N.Y.; instructor in education at Michigan State University and

Army, Navy, Marine Corps Reps To Speak On Military Obligations

Where do you stand in regard to military service?

If you are in doubt as to your service obligation, the University has scheduled several programs for you.

Representatives of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps will be on campus Wednesday, Oct. 5, to answer students' questions about the military and to discuss the various programs offered. They will be in the Student Center all day.

In addition to the military representatives, there will be a general meeting of all male students at 2:00 p.m. of that day in Dana 102 on the subject of military obligations. The meeting will be conducted by Professor William Allen of the history department. Mr. Allen, himself a Colonel in the United States Army Reserve, will discuss the student-military relationship and members of the armed forces will be present to answer questions.

Whether you are a "hawk" or "dove", 2-S or 1-A, you can learn valuable facts about your military responsibilities, as a student by talking with the military representatives, and attending the meetings on Wednesday.

Male students desiring deferment from military service who did not complete Selective Service questionnaires at early registration last May or during the past summer, are urged to complete them now. The forms, available at the Selective Service Office, second floor, Howland Hall, provide the University with necessary information for preparing the required 109 forms for local draft boards. The 109 form is a certification by the University that you are a full-time matriculated student.

Students who become 18 years of age while in college must register within five days after their birthday either with the University Selective Service Office or with their local boards.

Any questions regarding the Selective Service should be taken to the University office in Howland Hall between 9 and 2 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Bodine Scholarship Committee Formed

Sixty-two friends and associates of the late Alfred V. Bodine have formed a sponsoring committee to establish a memorial scholarship in his honor at the University.

Governor John Dempsey, Bridgeport Mayor Hugh C. Curran, and Graham E. Marx, president of the National Machine Tool Building association, have already accepted honorary chairmanships while Herman W. Steinkraus, a trustee of the University, has been named committee chairman.

Mr. Steinkraus will be assisted by a 15-member executive committee and a 45-member sponsoring committee.

The new chairman reported recently that the University has received 109 unsolicited contributions $4,127, which will furnish the Alfred V. Bodine Memorial Scholarship base.

The committee, he said, plans to encourage support from former friends and associates of Mr. Bodine and also the groups in which Mr. Bodine was a participant.

Members of the executive committee named by Mr. Steinkraus are: Edward C. Bullard, Fred R. Carstensen, University vice-president Albert E. Diem, Charles L. Gellatly, University chancellor, Dr. James H. Halsey, Dr. H. Parker Lansdale, University president, Dr. Henry W. Littlefield, Harold C. Main, Ronald A. Malony, Newman M. Marsilius, Isaac E. Schine, Frederick B. Silliman, John G. Stevens, Richard H. Van Horn, and William B. Kennedy, executive secretary.

Dempsey Votemobile On Campus Today

Governor John Dempsey seeking reelection will make the University a "stop" on his campaign circuit today in the form of the country's first automated campaigner, the "Dempsey Votemobile."

At 3 p.m. the 24 foot "shanty of wheels" will arrive at the Student Center.

The mobile, painted and decorated in the colors of Connecticut, Yankee blue and antique gold, is a traveling mobile exhibit which presents to the public an "Exhibit '66" of Governor John Dempsey's Progress in Connecticut.

"The big advantage of the Votemobile is that it puts me in two places at one time," Gov. Dempsey said. "It is an exciting innovation in political campaigning and we expect that tens of thousands of voters all over Connecticut will have a chance to see and hear it before Election Day."

The exhibit explains, on one side of the interior, the progress and accomplishments of the past five years under the Dempsey administration. The other side, the "PEOPLE wall," has six telephones that repeat 22 different mini-messages, averaging about 18 seconds each, relating important facts about state progress.

Outside, the Dempsey Votemobile girls will review the voting machine operation with interested voters, and circulate appropriate campaign material and souvenirs. Visitors will be invited to register in Gov. Dempsey's king size red leather guest book, if they so desire.

The Votemobile will remain parked in front of the Student Center until 7 p.m.

Under the sponsorship of the Democratic State Central Committee, the Votemobile was created by Nielsen-Wolf Associates, Green Farms, Conn.

City Planning Seminar Set

In cooperation with practicing planners in Connecticut, the University is offering a "Seminar in Urban Planning," for a 14-week period which began Tuesday.

The seminar is designed to offer training in basic planning techniques and principles used for urban development. The class will meet every Tuesday for two hours and will be geared to municipal officials, members and staffs of planning and zoning commissions, housing authorities, redevelopment and social agencies, and people in other fields related to urban development.

Dr. Hyung C. Chung, planning director of the Greater Bridgeport Regional Planning Agency, is the seminar's director. The course faculty will include several professional planners from Fairfield County and also faculty members from the University and Yale University.

Specific areas to be included in the seminar offering will include: history of urban planning in the United States, statutory basis for planning, concepts of planning, planning process, use of statistical materials, economic base study techniques, land use survey and analysis, housing market analysis, population projection, open-space development technique, industrial and commercial development principles, transportation system planning principles, regulatory development control techniques (zoning, subdivision, code enforcement), urban renewal and capital improvement programming technique.

Dr. Henry W. Littlefield, University president, indicated that the seminar was being offered by

THE NEW BREED

A new frontier imposes a natural process of elimination. You can meet the people that you would see on top of a high ski run which had no chair lift, and you can do it without the effort of climbing... just let gravity take its course: it's all downhill at the PARACHUTES INCORPORATED CENTERS.

The Centers are staffed and equipped to put you out on your first jump immediately following a time-tested four hour period of instruction. ($35 for everything involved in making the jump.) Safety is insured through the use of automatically opening main parachutes, FAA approved ten-place jump aircraft (your entire class jumps together), radio communication to the student, all-land drop zones, and constant, overall supervision by professional instructors both in the aircraft and on the ground; (80,000 jumps to date, over 8,000 of which were first jump students)

Something Like Sisyphus ...

Last week's Scribe article on the Carlson library might more aptly have been headlined "A Myth Like Sisyphus."

Sisyphus is the tragic hero of Albert Camus's short story about a man condemned by the gods to spend his life pushing a rock up a hill, running after it as it rolls back down to the bottom, and pushing it up again.

Sisyphus concludes however, that "all is well," because "the struggle toward the heights is enough to fill a man's heart."

The University, like Sisyphus, may be struggling to improve the Carlson library, but the struggle itself is not enough. Some very basic questions about the library remain unanswered.

How many books should the University library have?

President Littlefield, using a formula based on full-time enrollment only, says it should have 215,000 volumes. The American Library Association, basing its formula on total enrollment, says the library should have 420,000 volumes. The Greater Bridgeport Regional Planning Agency, who recently published a study on area libraries, agrees with the A.L.A. and finds the Carlson library deficient by 296,000 volumes.

The fact is, no matter whose formula is applied, there is still a great gap in Carlson library's facilities.

Another major question is who should the University library accommodate?

Should it serve only full-time students, as President Littlefield suggests, treating part-time students as second class citizens? Or should it be able to accommodate all of its students whenever they need research or reference material, as the A.L.A. maintains.

Undoubtedly, the library of an institution dedicated to the philosophy of a liberal education, should be able to accommodate all of its students.

We believe a university's library should be one of the most advanced areas of the institution. Closed circuit television, an excellent faculty, shining new buildings—fine as they are—don't make up for the awesome gap of 296,000 books in the Carlson library.

Powell's Support Still Strong Despite Racial, Moral Issues

By JOSEPH KRAFT

WASHINGTON — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-N.Y.) has shown a great capacity for survival in fighting against the effort to clip his wings as chairman of the House Committee on Education and Labor. But the source of Powell's power is not the Black Power, or Negro support, that he likes to advertise.

On the contrary, Powell's power is very much more a case of ordinary political power. His strength derives from his capacity to engage the complicated mixture of ambition, greed, fear and laziness that makes up the stock-in-trade of political leaders, white and black, all over the country. And nothing shows it better than the lineup for and against chairman Powell inside his own committee.

The initiative in the effort to strip him of all except titular powers as Committee chairman comes from the most responsible, intelligent and forward-looking Democratic members — Edith Green of Oregon, Frank Thompson of New Jersey, John Brademas of Indiana and Sam Gibbons of Florida.

Their case against the chairman does not rest on the reprehensible but slightly irrelevant matter of his private morals. It rests on the serious charge that absenteeism and petty feuds growing out of alleged misuse of House funds in a supposed investigation of the poverty program have rendered him ineffective as committee chairman.

Because most of those prominent in the anti-Powell faction are liberals supported by negro groups, Powell has raised the Black Power issue. But the discrimination charge has had no impact on the anti-Powell group.

And the reason is plain.

The fact is that basically Powell does not command the support of responsible Negro leaders such as Roy Wilkins of the NAACP or Martin Luther King or A. Philip Randolph. While they do not come out formally against one of the senior Negroes in the Congress, neither do they do anything to help Powell.

So far, on the contrary, the only Negro pressure for Powell has come from his own Abyssinian Baptist Church, and his own House office and that black pressure is so feeble that at least two young New York Congressmen with high ambitions for the future — Ogden Reid, a Republican and James Scheuer, a Democrat — actually welcome the change to stand up and be counted against Powell.

An almost exactly inverse calculation explains the sources of Powell's strength. His main backing on the Committee comes from the conservative midwestern Republicans. Indeed, minority leader William Ayres of Ohio could hardly wait to announce his support publicly.

Why? Well, figuring motives is never easy. But the general theory is that Ayers expects someday to take over the prestige and power that go with being chairman of a major committee. If Powell is cut down to size, he would suffer the same diminution. So Ayers is against any reduction of the chairman's authority.

Similarly, on the Democratic side, Powell has in his corner most of the organization-minded members who, along with House Speaker John McCormack, instinctively shrink from upsetting the established order. One good example is Roman Pucinski, a creature of Mayor Richard J. Daley's organization in Chicago, who happens to represent a Polish district dominated by backlash.

Backlash or not, Pucinski is Chairman of one of Powell's subcommittees and that tie binds him to the chairman's side. And the same logic seems to work for another Subcommittee Chairman, John Dent of Pennsylvania.

Even the uncertain votes seem to fit the same pattern. Hugh Carey, an organization Democrat from Brooklyn, would normally follow the leadership in not wanting to cause trouble. But he is pulled the other way by the possibility of wanting to have Powell's support in primary and election fights for Mayor of New York. Albert Quie, a Minnesota Republican, would normally follow his party leadership in backing Powell. But he is looking for some maverick Democratic support for an amendment favoring milk producers back home that he is trying to tack on to a school lunch bill.

Despite Powell's claims, in short, the Powell case is not a racial issue. It is a normal political issue that will be decided by the ordinary cut and thrusts of political advantage.

Precisely because it has now entered the regular pattern of politics, the Powell case is not likely to go away soon. If he gets by the Education and Labor Committee now, Powell will probably have to face a newly-formed Ethics Committee of the House. And then there is always the possibility of action by the Democratic caucus when the House meets next year.

People Came From All Around

This was the scene in the University bookstore this week, as students rushed to get their books in time to do their first class assignments. Milton Aldrich, manager of the bookstore said, "We are in a better situation book-wise this fall, even with an unanticipated increase in enrollment, than ever before. We are only running out of books in a few obscure cases." The bookstore has also been accommodating students from Fairfield and Sacred Heart Universities, because bookstores at these universities have run out of many books, Aldrich said. The bookstore is open 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, this week and next week.

University Gets Four Grants For Use In Special Programs

The University has recently received four grants totalling $152,949, from the National Science Foundation, the division of Community Health Services of the U.S. Public Health Service, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and the International Nickel Company, the Office of Public Relations announced last week.

The National Science Foundation has contributed $9,910 to the department of physics, and $9,370 to the department of mathematics for the establishment of in-service institutes in those departments.

The purpose of these programs is to assist secondary school teachers of physics and mathematics to study new concepts and teaching methods in their fields.

The physics institute will be directed by Dr. William Garner, former chairman of the department of physics.

Classes will begin Oct. 1, and will meet Saturday mornings from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m.

Dr. Wray Brady, department chairman and Bernhard Professor of mathematics will direct the mathematics institute. Classes will begin in early Oct., and will meet on Tuesdays, from 4:30 - 9 p.m.

In addition to the grants to the departments of physics and mathematics, the College of Nursing has received $42,939 from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare as an initial payment on a projected $128,699 three-year Graduate Public Health Training Grant.

Funds for this grant were allocated in response to a proposal by the College of Nursing to establish a program of special training program in public health for nursing students here.

Under the proposal, members of the College of Nursing faculty will work with nurses in the Bridgeport health department to study skills essential to team nursing in agency and community settings.

As part of the program, the College of Nursing will introduce a new clinical course entitled "Comprehensive Nursing" this semester. Students will be given local clinical assignments during the semester, and will study areas of general education in human growth and development, social work, and political science which are applicable to public health nursing.

The fourth grant is an unrestricted gift of $5,000 from the International Nickel Company. It is part of a series of grants made by the company to various institutions of higher education throughout the country.

Campus SEA Charter Announces Fall Plans

The University Student Education Association announced last week their calendar of activities for the academic year, featuring a talk by the winner of the Newberry Book award for children's literature.

Mrs. Elizabeth Speare will lecture on children's literature and its role in modern education on March 15, 1967. Other activities planned, beginning Oct. 12 are as follows:

Oct. 12, 2 p.m., recent University graduates discuss "Student Teacher Goes Professional."

Nov. 16, 2 p.m., Miss Anna M. Cain, assistant superintendent of Bridgeport public schools, will speak on teacher certification and answer questions concerning job requirements.

Jan. 11, 2 p.m., Mrs. Mary Hardy, executive director of Sterling House Community Center, will discuss and demonstrate handicraft suggestions for classrooms from kindergarten through high school.

Feb. 15, 2 p.m., Dr. Frances Humphreville, recipient of the National Education Association reading research citation, will speak on appropriate classroom field trips from kindergarten through high school.

Mary 15, 1967, 2 p.m., Mrs. Elizabeth Speare, Newberry Book award winner.

April 12, 2 p.m., discussion of graduation requirements, current catalog changes, and pre-resignation for the next semester by representatives of the elementary and secondary education departments of the College of Education.

May 17, 2 p.m., Mrs. Marie Curran, supervisor of School Health Services in Stratford, will relate common health problems in the classroom.

In December, the association will make stuffed animals for area orphans.

Officers of the association are Roger A. Pilotti, president; Elaine M. Riccio and Ronald G. Kosh, co-vice-presidents; Joan B. Olsen, secretary; Georgeanne G. Angell, treasurer; and Eugene Alesvich, state representative.

Six New Department Heads...

Dr. Hennessy served as director of the counselor-advisor university summer education project conducted at the University during the 1965 Summer Session under a $81,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Labor. He has developed and administered an in-service training program for elementary school guidance specialists in the Danbury school system during the past year.

Dr. Hennessy has served as co-director with Dr. William Buecker of the University College of Education of a study to investigate factors relating to the improvement of school guidance services in Connecticut under contract with the State Department of Education.

Dr. Hennessy served as director of the Vocational Guidance Institute being conducted at the University this summer under a $13,676 grant from the Bureau of Vocational Education of the State Department of Education.

He is a member of the American Personnel and Guidance Association; the Association for Counselor Education and Supervision; the State Personnel and Guidance Association; Fairfield County Personnel and Guidance Association and is on the Board of Directors of the New England Guidance Conference.

Dr. Baird succeeds Professor James O. Jackson who stepped down from the post of chairman of the art department to devote full time to teaching.

Before coming to the University, Dr. Baird was the head of the art department at Edinboro State College, Pennsylvania. He also headed the arts department of Texas Western College, University of Tampa, and was the dean of the Massachusetts College of Art. Before that he taught sculpture and ceramics at the University of Missouri.

Dr. Baird also does quite a bit of traveling. He studied in Italy at the Università Italiana per Stranieri and the Accademia di Belle Arte di Roma. He also studied folk art in Japan on a Ford grant. While in the Army Air Force at the end of World War II, he traveled to South America, India, Burma, and China.

A member of Phi Beta Kappa, Dr. Baird received his Ph.D. from Ohio State University, his M.A. from the Teachers College of Columbia University, and his B.S. from Edinboro State College. He studied as a Fulbright fellow in sculpture in Italy.

where he had been dean of faculty and professor of physics. He has also been a staff scientist and research professor at Stevens Institute of Technology, Chairman of the Physics Department of Lafayette College, and an assistant professor at the University of Maine.

He will succeed Dr. William B. Garner as Chairman of the Physics Department at the University. Dr. Garner will coordinate foundation and governmental grants for the University's College of Arts and Science, as well as devote more time to teaching and research, Miles said.

Larsen received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Maine and Ph.D. degree from Pennsylvania State University.

While at Lafayette College Larsen served as Associate director for the Special National Foundation Program for Summer Institutes, and coordinator of the Special National Foundation Program for Summer Institutes, and coordinator of the Special Early Entrance Program sponsored by the Ford Foundation. In 1958 Lafayette College presented him with the Jones Award for Excellence in Teaching.

Larsen is the author of 20 professional publications including articles in the Journal of American Chemical Society, Journal of Chemical Physics, and American Physics Teachers Journal.

DR. EARL M. URAM

Dr. Earl M. Uram, staff scientist in the Davidson Laboratory and research associate professor of the mechanical engineering, Stevens Institute of Technology has been named the Igor I. Sikorsky Professor of Engineering Mechanics and chairman of the mechanical engineering department.

Dr. Uram has taught at the Neward College of Engineering, the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Hartford Graduate Center, and Drexel Institute of Technology, in addition to Stevens Institute of Technology.

As staff scientist at the Davidson laboratory Dr. Uram has been staff consultant for viscous fluid phenomena. He was responsible for the proposal, preparation, procurement and execution of government contracts in diversified fields including theoretical and experimental fluid mechanics new concepts in design and behavior of high speed ships reduction, stability and control, and hydro-acoustics. He was responsible for the design, fabrication and instrumentation of a new wind tunnel and water channel.

Dr. Uram's professional experience includes service as hydrodynamics group leader at the Electric Boat Division, General Dynamics Corporation, research engineer at the United Aircraft Corp. Research Laboratories, research engineer at the Harvard University Engineering Laboratory. He is a consultant for a number of companies and is a licensed professional engineer.

Dr. Uram received his B.S. degree in mechanical engineering from Drexel in 1950, his M.S. degree in engineering mechanics from Penn. State in 1953, and Sc.D. degree from Stevens in 1966.

He is the author of some 21 articles which have appeared in professional publications or were presented at scientific meetings. Dr. Uram is a member of Sigma Xi, Pi Tau Sigma, Pi Nu Epsilon, the American Physical Society, American Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers and American Society of Naval Engineers, American Society of Engineering Education and the Montclair Society of Engineers.

Slated for completion in the fall of 1967, the new women's dorm will house 400 university females, Alfred Diem, University vice-president said. The construction costs have been financed by a $2,100,000 self-liquidating loan from the U.S. government.

All Off-Campus Men Must Attend Meeting

The newly formed Off-Campus Department of Men's Housing will have an orientation meeting Oct. 5 at 4 p.m. in the Student Center Social Room to present information regarding the new department and possible opportunities for off-campus students.

Freeman Clark, new director of off-campus housing, said there will also be a discussion of problems off-campus students might have.

Overcrowded housing conditions at the University have forced almost 500 men to live off-campus again this year.

"We are here to protect the student living off-campus," Clark said. His office's primary purpose is to investigate the conditions of apartments off-campus. If they do not meet minimum qualifications, the landlord would be notified and advised to rectify the situation. If the landlord refuses, then the off-campus housing office will help the student find another apartment.

Off-campus men not able to attend the orientation meeting, must contact the Off-Campus Department on the west wing, ground floor of Trumbull Hall.

University Receives New Digest Grant

The University's roving reporters have again received a grant of $1000 to pay for traveling expenses from the Readers Digest Foundation for the 1966-67 academic year.

The grant was established for journalism students and others who wish to do factual writing. The student must intend to publish a story about his trip in any campus publication or other publication.

"The first-hand contact with the developing event is a good learning experience and will prove exciting for students in history, English, science and other areas," said Dr. Howard B. Jacobson, chairman of the Department of Journalism and Communications.

A student who wishes to write a story which requires traveling may request a grant, Dr. Jacobson said "but the request should be reasonable as far as the distance and expense is involved."

The Reader's Digest Foundation has made a grant of $500 to New York University and similar grants to a number of other outstanding schools with departments in journalism.

The grant was arranged by Charles W. Ferguson, senior editor of "Readers Digest" and was formally approved by De Witt Wallace, editor of "Readers Digest." It will be available to students starting this term.

of the resources which are available."

In his topic entitled "A University Evaluates Its Role", he cited four functions that are imperative to a successful university.

"We must never deviate from disseminating knowledge, teaching is our number one function," he said. "An uninhibited freedom to learn and to pioneer is a necessity in learning."

The University also has the job of providing trained people for professions in today's world. He said that the records of the University's graduate in the professional world is very rewarding.

More attention must be put on research, said President Littlefield. "Emphasis on research is self-evident, and professors must use all resources in the teaching medium," he said.

The fourth function of the University is in the role of a public servant, he said. The University has long been engaged in cultural programs which brought to the campus men and women of letters and science from all over the world.

BULLETIN BOARD

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Scribe cannot guarantee the publication of any Bulletin Board announcements. University announcements are given first priority while all other announcements will be taken on a first-come-first-served basis. Space dictates.

The Scribe will not publish announcements of weekly club meetings unless they feature a special event. The Scribe cannot assume responsibility for advertising any function as part of a publicity campaign.

Announcements must be brought to the Scribe office (CBA 19-21) or dropped in the Scribe mailbox (outside the office) by 10 a.m. Friday for publication the following Thursday. Copy should be typewritten and double-spaced.

This is to announce that the Debate Society (Debate 113) will meet regularly on Wednesday from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Debate Office in Westport Annex. All students who still wish to register for the above course are asked to come to the next meeting or see Professor Evans during his office hours.

The Student Council Financial Committee has set Monday, Oct. 10, as the final date for all budget requests.

Forms can be picked up at the Student Council office on the third floor of the Student Center.

All girls interested in cheerleading are invited to an organizational meeting Saturday, Oct. 1, in the Warner Hall recreation room. All girls in good standing at the University are eligible. Tryouts will be held the following week.

Eight foreign films, carrying convocation credit, will be shown by the Committee on Informal Education Friday nights at 8 p.m. in Dana 102. The first of this series will be a German film, Cabinet of Dr. Caligari, on Friday.

The Fiftieth Anniversary Show with Fred Waring and The Pennsylvanians is being presented at the Klein Auditorium Oct. 14, at 8:30 p.m., by the Exchange Club of Bridgeport. Tickets for orchestra and mezzanine at $5.50 and balcony at $3.50 can be obtained from Dean Bigsbee, extension 263.

There will be a pep rally Friday night at 7 o'clock in the gym. A capacity crowd is requested to boost the Knights on to a victorious season and there will be no limit on the amount of spirit, noise makers, or confetti.

Change Of Program Deadline Is Oct. 5

After September 28, 1966, students may make a change in program by following this procedure.

1. Initiate a request in the Office of Student Personnel in either Howland or Seeley Halls and receive the proper forms.
2. Obtain approval of desired changes and signatures of faculty advisor.
3. Obtain approval and initials of instructors of courses to be dropped and courses to be added.
4. Have forms processed at Bur-sar's Office, Fairfield Hall, whether or not a change of program fee is charged.
5. Have remaining forms processed in Data Processing Office which is located in the basement of Howland Hall.

This procedure should ordinarily be processed within forty-eight hours of the request. The forms are not valid if the final process is not completed within three days of the initiation of the request.

October 5, is the deadline for adding a class. No student will be able to add a class after this date.

A student may withdraw from a class until December 2, 1966. However, certain dates should be noted. In accord with the Faculty Senate policy, Friday, October 21, 1966, is the last day on which a student may withdraw from a class without a subscript grade. If the withdrawal grade is an "F" it figures into the student's average. If it is above an "F" it does not.

dent Center Social Room. The program will include Beethoven's Opus 18 No. 6 and Hadyn's Opus 76 No. 2.

The Quartette members include Bernice Stoeckel, Frieda and

The concert is sponsored by the music department.

CAEYC Meeting Here Saturday

The Connecticut Association for the Education of Young Children will hold its Fall Conference and annual meeting at the University this Saturday.

The Conference, which will be held in the Student Center, begins at 9:00 a.m. and continues through the afternoon. Included in the activities will be an organizational meeting, an address by Dr. Melvin Lewis, Assistant Professor of Pediatrics and Psychiatry at Yale, and group discussions.

The association, a national organization of professional child care specialists and nursery school teachers, formerly called the Nursery School Association, is concerned with children between the ages of 3 and 6 and is devoted to finding better methods of child education.

Co-chairmen of the conference are Mrs. Marjorie Hansen of the University College of Education and Miss Dorothy Van Burn, Director of the Greenwich Center for Child and Family Services.

the University as part of its continuing programs of meeting area needs. President Littlefield cited the shortage of trained professional planners in America, and said that training persons locally could meet this need.

Lay citizens interested in redevelopment would especially gain from participation, he observed.

Dr. Chung said the enrollment would be limited to 25 persons to assure maximum benefit from the seminar for participants.

KNIGHTS LOSE TO HUSKIES

The University football team traveled to Boston last Saturday and suffered a 19-6 setback at the hands of Northeastern University in a game that was marked by a poor defensive effort and the failure of the Knights to capitalize on several scoring opportunities.

The Purple Knight gridders had four scoring situations in which they ended up turning over the ball to Northeastern and also had a 80-yard touchdown run called back in the closing minutes of the first half because of a penalty.

UB's only touchdown of the afternoon came on a freak play in which quarterback Joe Santos caught his own pass from the seven-yard line and scored. The ball bounced off the head of Knight tailback Kevin Kopka back into Santos' arms on the two-yard line and he dived into the end-zone.

After Northeastern halfback Don Cavaliero and fullback Billy Curran combined for a 84-yard 1st quarter scoring drive, the Knights missed a golden scoring opportunity in the second period.

Joe Peterson recovered a Northeastern fumble on the Huskies 29-yard line. Stan Mosiej, tailback John Howe and quarterback Joe Santos took turns lugging the ball all the way to the four-yard line where the drive was stalled.

The visiting UB eleven finally got on the scoreboard with less than two minutes remaining in the half on the Santos to Santos aerial, following a 51-yard march in 11 plays. A pair of passes from Santos to Kopka and end Steve Vining highlighted the series.

The Knight gridders received another heartbreaker when an 80-yard TD run by Wes Dubois with an intercepted pass was called back due to a penalty, in the closing seconds of the half.

The second half was strictly a story of the Huskies ground power as Curran and Cavaliero scored a touchdown apiece on drives of 35 yards in the third quarter and 82 yards in the finale.

The Knights had two chances to tally, as they reached the Northeastern 23-yard line on a 52-yard quarter drive and the 20-yard line on a fumble recovered by Steve Solarsh. But both times completed fourth down passes finished short of first downs.

Head football coach Nick Nicolau attributes the loss to a combination of mistakes made on both offense and defense.

"We were disappointed in Saturday's performance. When we looked back on the game we saw many breakdowns on defense by some of our younger inexperienced players in crucial situations," Nicolau said.

"Offensively, our failure to score within the 20 and not getting the important yardage on third down situations hurt us," he added.

The upcoming home game with Cortland State on Saturday should be a real test for the Purple Knights. Cortland State brings a 2-0 record into John F. Kennedy stadium for the 7:45 p.m. contest.

Knight Booters Have Sights On 13th Straight Winning Season

Head soccer coach Joe Bean and the 1966 Knight booters aren't a bit superstitious about the number 13. That's how many consecutive winning seasons the University soccer team will have under its belt if they live up to their potential this season.

Coach Bean's assessment of the prospects for another winning year all point to a sunny forecast for his charges to live up to their billing and close in on winning season number 13.

"Potentially this team is far superior to last year's squad and I'll be disappointed if we win less than nine out of our eleven games," Bean said.

Bean guided the UB soccermen to a 6-4 record in 1965, which represented the University's 12th straight winning soccer campaign.

One of the main reasons for the coach's optimism is the return to action of John Verfaillie, who won All-American honors in 1964. Verfaillie scored 15 goals in helping lead the Purple Knights to the quarter-finals of the 1964 NCAA tournament.

Another key offensive returnee to this year's team is Dick Dieckmann, who also sat out last season after being one of the top scorers on the 1964 freshman team.

The combination of Verfaillie and Dieckmann with Alex Popovich, last year's number one goal producer, will give Coach Bean what he thinks will be "an excellent scoring punch."

The outside positions on the front line will be manned by Veteran Mubeyyin Altan and Sophomore Steve McKee.

Defensively, the Knights can bank on an all-veteran array headed by co-captains Ken Kline, a halfback and Tom Cikigil, a fullback.

Larry Lerner, voted the most improved player on the 1965 squad, will be back at goalie. Lerner registered three shutouts and limited the last seven opponents to only five goals last year.

Other defensive letterman returning are fullbacks Abe Reiss and Jack Gray and halfbacks Doug Pearson and Ulker Birson.

A trio of sophomores from last season freshmen team which compiled a brilliant 7-1 record are also pressing for starting positions on this year's squad. They are fullback George Nikiforov and halfbacks Ron Goddard and Bob Thibodeau.

Also sure to see service during the campaign are halfback Tom Poland, fullback Bob Hurlbaeus, and forwards Jesus Rodriguez, Ed Ricci, a letterman, Ronnie Lawrence, and Alan Schoenbach.

The Knights will open their campaign Saturday, Oct. 1, against Albany State in Albany and coach Bean sees it as a key game.

"Its our opening game and the first game is always a vital one, we have to win it. Albany State is the type that can surprise you if you don't play them though," Bean said.

"The game should be one in the win column for us, but we can't expect to just walk out on the field and win it, we must do a job as a team," he added.

The Knight booters first home contest will be against powerful Long Island University on Saturday, October 8 at 2:00 p.m. on the Seaside Park Field.

NEW FROSH GRID COACH

Richard Pacelle has been named freshmen football coach at the University according to Dr. Herbert E. Glines, Director of athletics.

Pacelle was a football teammate of Bridgeport head coach Nick Nicolau at Southern Connecticut State College. The new frosh mentor was a three-year starter at halfback at SCSC and was a co-captain of the Owls' 1954 gridiron squad.

Pacelle has been teaching in the Milford public school system for 11 years and served as an assistant football coach at Milford high in 1959, 1960 and 1963 and at Jonathan Law high last season.

The newly appointed coach also played baseball at Southern as a second baseman-shortstop. He later went on to coach a baseball team during his three-year Army hitch.

"Dick always was a very hard worker and extremely conscientious as a player and I'm sure these qualities have carried over into his coaching career," Coach Nicolau said.

"Dick displays a youthful enthusiasm for the game which we hope all of his players will emulate. We feel we've interested some excellent student-athletes to enter Bridgeport as freshmen this Fall and we are sure that they will enjoy a rewarding player-coach relationship under Dick," the UB coach continued.

Pacelle holds a bachelor of science degree from Southern Connecticut and is working towards a master's degree at Bridgeport. He is married and he and his wife, Patricia and their four children, live in New Haven.
